

Try it out: Participate in a Research Study of Programming

Are you a JavaScript developer?

We are researchers at George Mason University. Our lab designs new tools and methods for software development and conducts research studies to better understand what works and what doesn't.

We are currently conducting an online programming study. To participate, you should be comfortable programming in JavaScript. As a small token of appreciation, all participants will be paid $20 per hour through an Amazon Gift Card. The study will last approximately 4 hours.

If you'd like to participate, please sign up below.
